Brief explanation of the `Summary table` [Part of preprint publication `METAPSYCHOLOGY and PSYCHOLOGY, METAPSYCHIATRY and PSYCHIATRY, METAPSYCHOTHERAPY and PSYCHOTHERAPY, A new theory on psyche, mental disorders and their psychotherapy - in particular schizophrenia.`] The links connect directly to corresponding sections of this publication. (30.09.2009)

Overall, the table shows a new classification of the psyche and from left to right the possibilities of the emergence of mental illness, especially schizophrenia.
The leftmost vertical column shows the classification of psychical Relevant in Dimensions and Differentiations.
The Differentiations I derived in various levels from general patterns of language which I exactly described in the chapter 'Metapsychology' .
The Dimensions show the rank of a differentiation.
I have listed 7 dimension aspects (Aa1-7). The bold signed terms of cell Aa1: Absolute (A) Relative (R) and Nothing (0) are guiding words which include the other dimensions.
The horizontal rows show from the left to the right the development of psychical symptoms or disorders up to the schizophrenia.
The column A includes metapsychology & its D psychology, columns E to N metapsychiatry and columns O to V psychiatry especially T-V schizophrenia.
`The neutral psychic Relevant` one finds on the top horizontal row leftmost. Here I listed general and personal `neutral` forms, functions and actions in columns A to D in all aspects. This corresponds essentially to the classification of the parts `Metapsychology` (column A) and `Psychology` in the publication.
I called the next bigger segment (columns E to K) 'emergence and character of the It'. I understand 'It' as a new strange entity, created by `inversions`, which dominates psychic relevant (pr) systems, especially human.
Inversion means mistakes of the Absolute, Relative and Nothingness (leading concepts) or their synonyms. I listed different known ideologies as a starting point for those inversions in the column E because they invert the Absolute and Relative. They stand exemplarily for a huge number of unnamed individual ideologized basic attitudes.
Column G shows how `It` forms emergence, column H shows the different kinds of the It and column I its characteristics.
The column J should show with the symbol ⇕, that the Its invert realities and invert person.
The It have another effect towards the person in the long term than at short term. In the column K the unfavorable long-term character of the It is shown and his possible impacts in general from L to N and from O to S the impacts on person. Finally, all possible symptoms of schizophrenia are listed exemplarily from column T to V.
A process is important to understand the genesis of the disorders, which I called „spreading and compression" and described closer in `Metapsychiatry` - i.e. every inversion spreads in such a way, that it can cause all sorts of disturbances, as well as one disturbance can be caused of all sorts of inversions. Here I distinguish obligatory and optional effects ("main and secondary impact-directions" of the inversions).
For example: One inversion in the dimension`s aspect a4, caused by corresponding ideologies (e.g. in cell E4) causes obligatorily disturbances in this a4 aspect , but all other disturbances can caused optionally.
But on the other hand, one disturbance are able to be caused also by all other inversions (see column F).

SUMMARY TABLE

| | | Neutral psychical Relevant (pR) | | | Emergence and character of the It | | | | | | | | | It-effects and results | | | | | | | | |